Brent Darnell Donates Resources, Education to SafeHouse Outreach Program

Brent Darnell teams with SafeHouse Outreach, an Atlanta-based shelter, to provide homeless men and women with valuable Emotional Intelligence skills (<http://www.brentdarnell.com>).

ATLANTA—Brent Darnell, President of Brent Darnell International, applies his expertise in Emotional Intelligence toward helping homeless men and women find jobs and become productive members of society. Brent's Emotional Intelligence test and workbook are used by SafeHouse to teach social and professional skills to those in need.

Founded in 1982 by Phillip Bray, SafeHouse Outreach offers parenting classes, mentoring programs, job skills training, transitional housing appointments, and other critical life skills to the homeless, at risk-youth, and those in life crisis. The organization's motto is "a hand up, not a hand-out" which is displayed by their commitment to teaching valuable life skills needed to succeed in life.

Brent has served on the board of SafeHouse for over eight years where his role includes connecting individuals with companies who are hiring, educating them on Emotional Intelligence and its applications toward personal and professional success and donating resources such as his Emotional Intelligence test and workbook. Brent plans to next share his educational session on teaching 12 Steps to Great Relationships which will help to improve interviewing skills.

"I feel so fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with SafeHouse and all of the men and women who they help," said Brent Darnell, President of Brent Darnell International. "Every day they take an unfortunate situation and create an extraordinary turning point."

Brent Darnell is President of Brent Darnell International, bestselling author and in-demand speaker. His best-selling book, The People-Profit Connection, has sold over 30,000 copies worldwide. It covers a wide variety of Emotional Intelligence topics that aim to teach the important role people skills play in increasing safety, life balance, teamwork and trust, reducing stress and burnout and coaching alpha males. All of Brent's books are available for purchase from Amazon or Barnes and Noble.
